European Communities Trade Mark Association

No. 03-05, February 7, 2005

Dear Members,

ECTA is delighted to announce the launch of its new website on February 7, 2005.

Not only has the design of the website been modified, but also its structure and content have been enhanced. We urge you to view the new website at your earliest convenience.

New sections have been added such as the Site Map, and the 25th Anniversary Section where our Past Presidents reminisce about their time as President. In addition you will be able to register for the London Conference on-line via the website.

All information can be viewed by category. For example, information about Domain Names can be found under the Internet Committee Section, and about Community Designs under the Design Committee Section.

We do hope that this new website will be a useful tool for you. Please do not hesitate to send your comments to Sandrine Peters.

We would especially like to thank Mr Michel Rucquois for all his time and trouble designing the new website and bringing it to life.

Michel Rucquois has been an ECTA member since the beginning of 2004 and he is a member of ECTA's Internet Committee. He works in the Brussels Office of UGGC and Associés and specialises in Intellectual Property and more specifically its taxation aspects. Please see his Article in ECTA Gazette No. 51, of Autumn 2004.

We should further like to thank Sue Van Looy and Catherine Van Vuuren, from the ECTA's office, for their kind and efficient collaboration, without which, the launch of the new website could not have been completed.

Yours sincerely,

Max Oker-Blom
President
